The Rest of the News

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, Oct. 23, the 297th day of 1964 with 68 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Venus.

The evening stars are Saturn and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1915, 25,000 women marched in New York City demanding the women's right to vote in all states.

In 1942, the British Eighth Army launched a offensive against Axis forces at El Alamein, Egypt, to open a campaign that was to sweep German and Italian forces out of North Africa.

In 1965, voters in the Saar rejected a proposed statute to "Europeanize" the tiny country and draw it more closely to France.

In 1956, the Hungarian Revolt started.

A thought for the day: American novelist Thomas Mann said: "Opinions cannot survive if no one has a chance to fight for them."

LSU To Meet Tennessee On Saturday

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Unbeaten Louisiana State and Tennessee, a pair of rugged defensive teams, renew their football rivalry Saturday in a series that has been nominated by the Vols.

LSU, ranked 7th nationally, now has a 4-0 record compared with Tennessee's 3-2 mark.

But records have not meant much in this series, especially to the Vols who have captured 10 of the 12 games played by the two schools.

The last time the two schools played was in 1959 when the Tigers, then coached by Paul Dietzel, invaded Knoxville with a 19-game winning streak. Although halfbacks Billy Cannon and Johnny Robinson both ran up more yardage than the whole Tennessee team, the Vols still upset the Tigers 14-13.

The situation will be somewhat similar this Saturday afternoon when the two teams clash here before a Homecoming crowd of more than 60,000 and a regional television audience.

Coach Charley McClendon's Tigers will be favored by two touchdowns to hand Tennessee its third loss in southeastern conference play.

The Tigers upended Kentucky last Saturday 27-7 in their first conference action, although they played without the services of star quarterback Pat Scruggs and halfback Joe Labruzzo. Both are expected to see limited action Saturday.

Tennessee's defensive unit is anchored by middle guard Steve DeLong, a 6-3 243-pound All-America candidate, and guard Tom Fisher, who blocked a punt, field goal and an extra point against Alabama last week.

UNMASKING THE LIE

We all know how King Solomon used lie-detecting to discover which of two women was the true mother of a baby. He ordered the child cut in half, and then watched to see how each woman reacted. The liar's reaction gave her away.

In every land, in every age, man has sought ways of unmasking the liar. Early Anglo-Saxons tested honesty by seeing how far a man would sink in a pool of cold water. Arabs used to judge by how badly a person's tongue was scorched when he licked a red hot spoon. One ingenious method was the fire-chewing test, used in primitive India. If the rice was still dry after being chewed, the man was a liar.

Quilt could indeed cause the chewer's mouth to go dry. But so could mere nervousness. Everyone is familiar with how our bodies betray our emotions. Cheeks blush. Palms sweat. The big problem always has been to single out lying as the specific cause of a specific reaction. Thus, the United States Supreme Court held it was wrong for a trial judge to say that the defendant was probably a liar because he kept wiping his hands while testifying.

The most ambitious effort to date in trying to expose falsehood, is the modern lie detector. This device measures such indicators as pulse, respiration, and blood pressure. From these findings the operator seeks to determine whether the person is telling the truth.

Is the lie detector reliable? Experts differ vehemently. Proponents claim a high rate of accuracy. They add that, even if it isn't perfect, it is far better than other methods of getting at the facts. They point to numerous confessions obtained through lie detectors. The device is widely used not only by the police and military but also by business.

Critics call the lie detector a gigantic hoax. They say it induces confessions not because it works so well but mainly because people are bluffed into thinking it does. They contend that, to interpret the data with any sort of assurance, one needs much more sophisticated skills than most operators now possess.

In the courtroom itself, skepticism prevails. Almost without exception, courts still won't accept such tests as valid evidence unless the parties consent — and sometimes not even then. In the eyes of the law, the case for the lie detector, whatever its promise for the future, is not yet proven.

A 100-watt bulb gives out more than twice as much light as two 50-watt bulbs. For maximum light, use one bulb of higher wattage, rather than two small ones that add up to that wattage.

ASKS HELP — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch tells reporters in Washington that he is appealing for monetary contributions to buy TV time for Barry Goldwater to respond to President Johnson's broadcast on world affairs. He claims there is a "communications block" thrown up by the White House against Goldwater.

Nine Kentucky Colleges Will Play On Gridiron Tomorrow

By United Press International

The Ohio Valley Conference championship and a probable spot in the first NCAA small-college gridiron playoffs will be at stake when Morehead State's unbeaten Eagles clash with Middle Tennessee at Murfreesboro, Tenn., Saturday night.

The game is one of nine scheduled for Kentucky college teams this weekend, all but the Murfreesboro clash set for Saturday afternoon.

The state's two major college teams both hit the road, Kentucky to Georgia for a Southeastern Conference match, and Louisville to Huntington, W. Va., to seek its first victory of the season against Marshall University of the tough mid-America Conference.

The rest of the schedule includes an OVC tilt between Murray and Tennessee Tech at Murray, Findlay College of Ohio at Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky at Evansville, Centre at Sewanee, Emory & Henry at Georgetown, and Lincoln University of Missouri at Kentucky State.

Morehead, now 5-0, takes its best record, and probably its best team, in more than a decade to Middle Tennessee Saturday night and expects to need all the talent and toughness it can muster to beat the Blue Raiders for the first time since 1950.

Middle Tennessee, tied earlier, lost the first time last week when it went down before a strong Chattanooga team although winning the statistical edge from the Mocs.

Saturday night's game will pit the OVC's two leading forward passers, Mike Gottfried of Morehead and Teddy Morris of Middle Tennessee. Gottfried has completed 42 of 82 passes this season, Morris 36 and 69, and each has clicked for three touchdowns.

Eastern Kentucky steps out of the conference play this week to meet the Findlay Oilers from Ohio, a team rated second nationally by the small-college NAIA. They have the nation's top rusher in half-back Allen Smith, averaging better than 150 yards per game, while Eastern is counting on freshman tailback Arm Marsh, who scored three touchdowns last week — one on an 89-yard kick-off return.

Murray will be celebrating Homecoming — but that doesn't augur very well for the Racers. Murray hasn't won a Homecoming game since 1956, and was embarrassed by Tennessee Tech in 1958, 1960 and 1962. Tech hasn't won yet this year, but has been improving while playing rough schedules.

Western's Hilltoppers also step outside the league but may not get much of a breather, if any, as they take on an Evansville club that is undefeated and leading its Indiana conference.

Centre goes to Tennessee to face a Sewanee team that is overpowering the Collegiate Athletic Conference.

A Louisville team coached by Frank Camp has never lost to Marshall, but this may well be the year. Marshall was off to a slow start in a 6-0 loss to Morehead but has won its last three games. A Homecoming crowd of 10,000 is anticipated.

Kentucky State, suffering its first loss last week at the hands of Marshall, is trying to bounce back against Lincoln in front of its own Homecoming crowd at Frankfort.

Shelton Hopes To Win For Homecoming

Coach Don Shelton hopes that his Murray State Thorobreds will establish a new Homecoming tradition this year — winning the Homecoming Game.

The Racers haven't won at Homecoming since 1956 when they blasted Tennessee Tech 34-6. Tech will be the opponent again this year but the hopes for a repeat of history are somewhat jaded by Tech's performances in similar situations in 1958, 1960 and 1962.

In '58 the Eagles scored a last minute touchdown and a two-point conversion to edge the Racers 15-14. In '60 the Racers missed both conversion attempts and lost 14-12, and in '62 the Eagles didn't win a game all season until they beat Murray at Homecoming 16-12.

However, the Racers got some revenge last year when they spoiled things for the Tech alumni by winning the Tech Homecoming game 28-27.

Tech comes to Murray without a win again this year and Murray is favored. However, Shelton points out that the Racers have won two games that they were picked to lose and lost two and tied one they were picked to win. "Tech's a good club and we know it," Shelton said. "They've played the toughest schedule in the league, and they're getting better every week."

Of his own team, Shelton said that he felt they would be ready for the Eagles. "I think they will want to do their best for the Alumni, and we are in good physical shape."

The only Racer expected to miss the game with injuries is reserve end Bill Taylor.

The Racer starters will be Tom Cox and Jerry Grantham, ends; Charlie Mitchell and George Trumbo, tackles; John Wheeler and Dick Berry, guards; Jerry Woodall, center; Terry Croom and Tom Giannini, halfbacks; Tommy Glover, fullback, and Charlie Forrest, quarterback.

An overflow crowd is expected for the game which will begin at 1:30 p. m. The Homecoming queen will be named and crowned preceding the game. A Homecoming parade is scheduled for 9:30 a. m.

Perry Como Offers First Of A Series On NBC On Thursday

By JACK GAVER

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Perry Como offers the first of a series of specials on NBC next Thursday. It will start the singer's 17th season as a video performer and his 10th season of one-hour shows.

Singer Dinah Shore will be seen on ABC in her first outing as hostess of three daytime specials for women consisting of dramatic presentations of important problems. Comedian Art Carney turns up on NBC in a play.

NBC introduces a new game show Monday.

Highlights details Oct. 25-31.

SUNDAY

Part two of the three-part comedy-adventure film "The Tenderfoot" is Walt Disney's offering on NBC. This episode deals with an attempt to capture wild mustangs and an Indian attack.

MONDAY

A new game show called "What's This Song?" begins on NBC, Monday through Friday, replacing "Word For Word."
"Slattery's People" on CBS offers a question: What became of the White Tortilla? Guest star Ricardo Montalban plays an arrogant Mexican-American legislator whose effort to play a lone hand gets him into trouble.
"The Alfred Hitchcock Hour" on NBC has "The Life Work of Juan Diaz." The mummified body of a Mexican peasant becomes a valuable tourist attraction when a grave digger goes back on his contract.

TUESDAY

The "World War II" documentary on CBS has "Verdun in Inferno" dealing with the famous stalemated struggle at that French town.
"The Green Apple Affair" is seen on NBC's "The Man from U. N. C. L. E." The hero is trapped by enemy agents who plan to alter his brain and turn him into a human time bomb.
NBC has another analysis of the election picture with a one-hour "The Campaign and the Candidates."

WEDNESDAY

"The Purex Special for Women," with Dinah Shore is entitled "Child in Danger," dealing with molestation. Nina Foch and Martin Landau star in the drama of a woman attorney who is reluctant to defend a man accused of molesting a 10-year-old girl.
"But Not For Me" is screened on NBC's "Wednesday Night at the Movies." Clark Gable and Carroll Baker are starred.

TV CAMEOS: Phyllis Newman Satire Brought Her to Video Fame

These closeups display the mobility of expression Phyllis Newman brings to her imitations and characterizations on NBC-TV's weekly live show, "That Was the Week That Was."

By ED MISURELL

ASK PERFORMERS how they became successful in show business and you'll get answers, in most cases, as varied as the daily weather report. From amongst the multitude of replies, however, three basic facts emerge that usually apply to all—they were at the right place at the right time with the right talent.

A case in point is shapely brunette Phyllis Newman, who in the last few years has attained a small measure of TV success as a quick-witted, parlor personality on such panel shows as "To Tell the Truth," "Password" and "Missing Links."

Then one day last season she was asked to make a guest appearance on NBC-TV's satirical program, "That Was the Week That Was." She played in some sketches and did an incredibly accurate imitation, both in song style and mannerism, of Barbra Streisand, the star of the Broadway show "Funny Girl," who was appearing on the cover of a top weekly magazine that week.

Critics and viewers alike acclaimed Phyllis' performance. This was a Newman no one had seen before. Three weeks after, executive producer Leland Hayward hired her as a regular member of the cast, saying, "Miss Newman's talent is perfectly suited to 'TW.' Her fresh approach, her ability to mimic, her singing, her enthusiasm are the qualities that give satire the fullest entertainment value."

BEARING OUT his belief in her skills, Hayward again chose her, along with Nancy Ames and David Frost, as one of the three regulars to appear on this season's shows, the first of which was telecast in late September in a new time slot on Tuesday, 9:30 to 10 p.m.

"Before I did the Streisand imitation," recalled Phyllis the other day in New York, "I had never done one professionally. It was my husband who urged me to do it. I had been mimicking people privately for years, but never professionally."

Since then, her mimicry has been employed on "TW" as a slightly tipsy society editor, a beatnik folk singer, a Chinese Communist agent.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate pealing musically for entrance to the U.N., an Indian squaw, and in other sharply but humorously etched vignettes.

"These are usually worked out during the three days of reading and rehearsing before the show goes on the air live," said Phyllis. "The second and third days are really wild as they begin to tie the show together. The content of the show, based on news events in the preceding week, is rewritten right up to telecast time. I'm a nervous wreck on that final day, but I wouldn't give it up for the world. It's difficult, but highly stimulating, too."

ALL TOLD, Phyllis devotes about 20 hours a week to "TW." She also works about five hours a week on "To Tell the Truth." The rest of her time is spent with her husband, writer-lyricist-performer Adolph Green, whom she married in 1960, and their children, Adam, 5, and Amanda, 10 months.

"The more things I have to do, the more organized I seem to become," smiled Phyllis. "I enjoy what I'm doing and I feel that as long as I'm healthy and strong, I should take advantage of opportunities to perform."

She's been "on stage" almost from the time of her birth some 30 years ago in Jersey City, N. J. At four she made her first professional appearance as a protégé of vaudeville star Belle Baker. As a child she played roles in radio soap operas.

Phyllis made her first Broadway appearance in her teens in "Wish You Were Here." She won a Tony award for her role in "Subways Are for Sleeping," a musical on which her husband collaborated, in 1961. In between stage roles she turned up frequently on TV. But it was "TW" that really catapulted her into the video limelight and brought her many talents to the fore.

As to the future, Phyllis said she had no plans to work again with her husband. "We feel it better to keep our careers separate," she added with a smile. "He watches 'TW' all the time and is a real honest-to-goodness fan of mine. I want to keep it that way."

Memorial Woman's Missionary Society Meets Wednesday

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Memorial Baptist Church held its regular meeting at the church on Wednesday evening at seven-thirty o'clock.

Mrs. Velva Albritton presented a short history of the song, "O Worship the King" which was sung by the group. Mrs. Alfred Taylor, prayer chairman, gave the call to prayer.

The president, Mrs. Quinton Gibson, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Claude Miller, enlistment chairman, urged all ladies of the church to join the WMS.

Mrs. Cletus Hubbs gave the devotion. A special program on the tour of programs for the year 1964-65 was presented with Mrs. Gibson giving the opening and the introduction.

Mrs. Miller led the group to different booths where the following gave discussion of the work: Mrs. T. A. Thacker, program; Mrs. Alfred Taylor, prayer; Mrs. Colfield Vance, stewardship; Mrs. Verle Sanderson, mission study; Mrs. Pearl Phillips, community missions.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Thacker.

Special Program For Hazel WSCS

The Hazel Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service will observe the annual call to prayer and self-denial on Tuesday, October 27, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the church.

Offerings will go to home and foreign mission projects especially to the rebuilding of the Jesse Lee home for children in Alaska which was destroyed by the earthquake of March 27.

All members are urged to attend and all ladies of the church are invited to attend.

Smith-Beane Vows Read

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Beane

Miss Barbara Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Smith of Paris, Tenn. Route Six, became the bride of Jerry L. Beane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Beane of Kirksey Route Two.

Rev. Jessie Ladd officiated at the double ring ceremony on Friday, September 25, at seven o'clock in the evening at the home of the groom's parents near Kirksey.

The vows were read before a background of a white stone fireplace, flanked on each side by a basket of jade fern. The seven-branched white wrought iron candelabra on each side, with burning white tapers, cast a soft glow on the wedding scene. Magnolia leaves with cones covered the length of the "aisle" and featured a center arrangement of white mums. The candles were lit by the usher.

As the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, she was wearing a street length wedding dress of white tulle over satin. It was fashioned with a three-quarter length sleeve bow-tie jacket. A lace inset around the waist featured a white satin bow in front with long streamers. The bouffant skirt was posed over layers of tulle and bridal satin. Her veil of illusion was attached to a beaded pearl rose of tulle. She wore white satin shoes and short white gloves. The bride used the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue". She carried a cascading bouquet of white camellias with white satin ribbon and dove knots on a white Bible.

Mrs. Alena Beane, of Murray, was matron of honor. She was attired in a three-piece beige silk suit. Her hat, gloves and shoes were beige, and she wore a white carnation corsage.

Mr. Teddy Beane, of Murray, attended his brother as best man. Usher was Jerry Thompson of way.

Purveyor, Tennessee. Mrs. Smith, the bride's mother, wore a white wool dress with black accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Beane, was dressed in brown and beige wool with beige accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding. The bride's table was overlaid with white lace over white linen. A white wedding bell hung suspended from the ceiling over the center of the table with white satin ribbon extending to the corners of the table and forming bows. Also two white mums were featured at each corner of the table. The five tiered wedding cake, decorated in white and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was served with punch, nuts, and minis.

Serving at the reception were Diane and Kathryn Beane, cousins of the bridegroom. Presiding over the guest register was Rebecca Beane, also a cousin of the bridegroom.

After a short wedding trip of undisclosed destination, the couple will be at home for a short while in Kirksey. For traveling the bride was attired in a two-piece copen blue wool knit with a blue and green printed scarf and black accessories.

Among those from out-of-town for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wade, Mrs. Norma Taylor and Jannie Johnson all of Paris, Tenn.

PERSONALS

Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Humphreys, Sr. of Paris, Tenn., spent the weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Brandon, Hazel High.

Dear Abby . . . Don't Censor Her, Yet!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a woman who is married and a mother returning to high school to complete her education? I understand in some states it is allowed if she is under 18. A 16-year-old mother (shotgunned) wants to return. The other girls will undoubtedly accept her and make a fuss over her and, by so doing, will appear to approve of her past behavior. She, in turn, can instruct them well in married life. I feel for the girl, but I also feel for the good girls who have been raised with high moral standards. I think if such a girl wants to complete her education she should go to a school outside her district. What do you think?

UPSET IN PENNA. DEAR ABBY: If the girl is legally entitled to return to school in the district of her residence, that's that. As for the commotion she might cause, that would depend on her behavior and that of the other girls. The school authorities are capable of judging fairly. Give the girl a chance.

DEAR ABBY: Is it okay to go out with a married man if you keep your distance?

DEAR TEMPTED: Why don't you ask his wife (and "keep your distance" when you do)?

DEAR ABBY: I am an 11-year-old girl and I love to draw. Especially horses. My piano teacher is a very good artist and that is what I want to be. If I have a good piano lesson my teacher teaches me how to draw horses and I like that a lot better than playing the piano. I asked my father if I could quit piano and take drawing lessons instead, and he looked at me like I was crazy or something. I can spend hours drawing, and never get tired, but when I practice the piano for half an hour I am worn out. How can I get my father to let me quit piano and take drawing lessons?

LOVES TO DRAW DEAR ABBY: Stick with your piano lessons and draw as a side. If you have a real talent for art, perhaps your piano teacher will speak to your father in your behalf. But first talk it over with your teacher. He managed to become a pretty good musician and draw for fun, didn't he?

DEAR ABBY: We are at the end of our rope, so please print this and do a lot of people a big favor. We have a neighbor who lives alone except for her two dogs and we don't know how many cats. Her house stinks, her furniture is filthy, and there is cat hair all over the place. She complains that her friends don't want to visit her any more. She had always been a very nice person and we don't want to hurt her, but we just can't go into that house. Abby. The odor is unbelievable. Even her relatives don't visit her any more. If you print this, she might see it and take the hint.

FRIENDS BUT NOT VISITORS

Methodist Quiet Day Program Tuesday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Build of the First Methodist Church of Murray will join more than 1,700,000 Methodist women throughout America this week in observing their annual "Call to Prayer and Self-Denial".

The call is sponsored by the Woman's Division of the Methodist Board of Missions. The program meetings for women of the First Methodist Church are being given in the nine circles of the WSCS. The "quiet-day" service will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, October 27, at the little chapel in the church. Leaders will be Mrs. John Irwin, Mrs. Leonard Vaughn, Mrs. A. C. Childers, Mrs. N. P. Hutson, and Mrs. Lloyd Ramer.

Two events are held in observance of this call. A program meeting for interpretation of mission projects to which offerings will be given and a "quiet day" service of prayer, meditation, hymns, and scripture.

Projects to receive the offering this year are home missions and overseas mission projects. Each woman who participates in the "quiet day" prayer and self-denial is asked to save over a period of time and then to make a sacrificial gift to aid the designated projects. In addition women are asked to offer personal prayers for workers in mission projects.

This is one of the oldest observances for Methodist women, dating back to 1887.

Tau Phi Lambda Sorority Working On Special Drive

The Tau Phi Lambda Sorority, Delta Mu Chapter, of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle is sponsoring a drive for "New Eyes for the Needy, Inc." A local social service worker is assisting in the project.

The history of the New Eyes for the Needy, Inc. is as follows: In 1932 the late Mrs. Arthur Terry worked as a volunteer in a New York City Red Cross Food Station. There she found men and women who could not see to sign their names and could not afford to buy glasses.

She was determined to help these poor human beings deprived of the primitive joy of sight. At first, she gave them discarded glasses begged from her friends. Then one day, seeing the gleam of gold in frames, her idea was born.

The plan she worked out was extraordinarily simple. Old eye-glasses, odd bits of jewelry, gold and silver scrap could be melted down to provide the funds for new prescription glasses.

As Mrs. Terry's idea developed, the Junior Service League of Short Hills, New Jersey, assisted in the work, and after her death in 1947, the Service League incorporated New Eyes for the Needy as a nonprofit charitable organization and made itself responsible for carrying on her project.

When packages are received in response to the request, they are opened and the contents carefully sorted by the volunteers. The metal frames and gold and silver are sent to a refiner. The plastic glasses are set aside for future use.

With the funds obtained from the refiner, New Eyes purchases new prescription glasses and artificial eyes for the needy. This is done by establishing funds with hospitals in many major cities through payment of specified quotas of glasses and artificial eyes guaranteed to hospitals and welfare agencies. Any other hospital or accredited agency may receive assistance for purchase of glasses upon request. Any individual may apply directly to New Eyes for glasses. After their need has been certified, New Eyes pays for the prescribed glasses.

The plastic glasses set aside are classified according to their various categories. Simple magnifying and nearsighted glasses and good frames are distributed for Taylor.

with no additional heat needed inside the car.

Mother nature had a Panorama unfolded for us, especially on the hillside, where every hue could be seen.

We hereby name Ralph McCuiston as the champion lemon grower in Calloway County.

We found this huge lemon on our creek when we returned yesterday and according to Ralph the tree has a large number of these monsters on it. More this year than ever, he says.

This is an old tree that Ralph has, and he has to take it in the fall and bring it out again in the spring.

He gets a bang out of fooling with the lemon tree. The lemons are for real too.

Ralph says they may not be quite as acid as the small ones, but they are plenty acid.

The one he brought in measures 12 1/2 inches around the long way and 12 1/4 inches the short way. It weighs one and one-eighth pounds.

Driving out on Thorobred Terrace the other day. It has a new paving job.

Everybody seems to be happy to have the block long stretch of West Poplar paved. Especially the folks in the area who have been eating dust for so long.

Paving this short stretch will take some of the load off of Main Street.

knows what TVA has meant to the people of west Kentucky. I want a man who has compassion for the poor and the sick and the hungry.

I'm voting for Lyndon B. Johnson.

Sincerely,
Gene Landolt

Dear Editor:

I listened with interest last night to Hubert Humphrey on television. He was one of the founders and former chairman of the ADA, the nation's strongest advocate of appeasement.

His fairy tales reached new heights last night as he answered questions put to him by Frank Paxton, W. E. Foster and Mayra Ellis of Murray.

He accused Senator Goldwater of taking all price supports off farm products immediately, which of course, is not true. He claimed tobacco prices would be cut in half. But to set the record straight, Senator Goldwater said "The tobacco program has worked out very well, and I would not tamper with it as long as the growers want it".

Senator Goldwater has also stated that "The administration has ruined the cattle market with imported beef. And they are calling your tobacco a poison". How long will our farmers put up with this?

Some of the questions that could have been asked, but were left out were: Why did the wheat farmer have to pay 70c tax on his wheat this spring? Does the ADA really want to abolish the Un-American Activities Committee composed of congressmen who investigate communistic activity in the US? Does the ADA and Humphrey want the US to give the Panama Canal to the United Nations, and does he favor huge foreign aid, even to communistic countries?

Yes, Mr. Humphrey could have been asked one more question. Why did President Johnson change the route of I-24 at the request of Governor Breathitt, even though it cost an extra 40 million to skirt Murray and Calloway?

The TV performance last night certainly proved one point. That the Republicans need to keep the truth squad near.

project. Mayor Ellis expressed the appreciation of the city for the county's contribution. He explained that they actually had no legal obligation to pay anything, and cited the good relations which had always existed between the city and county government.

The alley between North Fifth and North Sixth may open in the near future, so that traffic can negotiate it.

A voluntary pay-roll deduction plan for city employees to the United Fund was approved by the city. This will be on a voluntary plan only.

Street lights were approved by Thorobred Terrace and in Richmond Sub-Division. Bids will be received on a car for the Murray Water and Sewer System. The four year old car system now in use will be traded in. A $25.00 contribution to the United Fund from the Murray Natural Gas System was approved.

The boundary of the city land fill sites will be properly surveyed in order to fix the proper property lines.

The traffic bump on North 14th, street between Hughes and Olive Boulevard is in operation and was reported to be slowing down traffic. It may be painted white in order that motorists will be able to see it more clearly.

LAND BETWEEN...

in Christian County had already been contacted about using the Land Between the Lakes for field trips this winter.

In discussing the economic aspects of the new project, Smith urged the Princeton group to plan for future development of the area so Princeton will be able to derive maximum benefit from the millions of potential consumers that will be driving through Princeton enroute to Land Between the Lakes.

No commercial establishments will be allowed inside the Land Between the Lakes. This should encourage private developments such as stores, filling stations, restaurants, and motels along the highways leading to the area, the TVA director said. "We believe that more than $25 million will be invested in commercial facilities in the surrounding region before the end of the demonstration," the TVA director told the group. He said TVA had already answered several inquiries from businessmen interested in establishing tourist accommodations near entrances to the project.

"The opportunity is excellent," Smith said. He cited TVA statistics estimating that between 8 and 10 million visitors will come to the new recreation area each year by the end of ten years.

TVA has already completed construction of one campground in the area. Smith said almost 12,000 visitors from 20 states visited the area during the past summer despite the fact that construction was not complete until early in September.
